Dear Travis Patron,

RE: Travis Patron
v.
His Majesty the King
Court of Appeal File No. CACR3628

This will acknowledge receipt of your document entitled Notice of Appeal as of right on March 23, 2023.

In my review of a Notice of Appeal, I must be satisfied that, at the very least, the provision or provisions mentioned in the documents provide you an appeal as of right to the Supreme Court of Canada from the judgment sought to be appealed. If not, I may refuse the document for filing pursuant to Rules 8(2) and 19(2)(a) of the Rules of the Supreme Court of Canada (see the decision of Mr. Justice Cromwell dated October 13, 2015, in S.H. v. Ministère de l'emploi et de la solidarité sociale, et al., 2015 SCC 66).

After careful evaluation, I have determined that your Notice of Appeal from a decision of the Court of Appeal for Saskatchewan relates to proceedings for which there is no automatic right to appeal to this Court. I am therefore refusing to accept the Notice of Appeal for filing pursuant to Rules 8(2) and 19(2)(a) on the basis that it does not comply with the Rules.

Should you still wish to proceed before the Supreme Court of Canada, you may file an application for leave to appeal by providing the documents checked ✓ below.

Self-represented litigants are asked to file all documents using the Electronic Filing Portal if possible. If not, you may file paper copies. Please note that the Electronic Filing Portal can be accessed via the Supreme Court of Canada website.

Please note that all documents filed must be served on the other parties.

✓ A notice of application for leave to appeal.

- ✓ A copy of the reasons for judgment and order you are appealing from. If there were no reasons for judgment, please advise us.
- ✓ A copy of the trial court reasons for judgment and order. If there were no trial court reasons for judgment, please advise us.
- ✓ A memorandum of argument.
- ✓ Proof of service on the respondent(s).
- ✓ A motion for extension of time (if you have exceeded the 60 day filing deadline).

In addition, please note that any application for leave to appeal filed in the Court may not be submitted to the judges until the following is received:

- ✓ 2 additional copies of your application for leave to appeal (if you are filing paper copies).
- ✓ Public Access to Information Form.

I also suggest that you contact a lawyer since he/she would be in the best position to advise you on the rights and remedies available to you, as may be the case. You can browse the Court's website for sources that make legal information available to the general public: <https://www.scc-csc.ca/unrep-nonrep/plie-opij-eng.aspx>. Many of these sources also provide information on how you can find a lawyer or where you can get free or low-cost legal services.

You may wish to contact Pro Bono Ontario since it operates a national program that provides legal advice to eligible self-represented persons who are bringing or responding to an application for leave to appeal. This service is available to the residents of every province and territory. To apply, please visit <https://www.probonoontario.org/scc-csc/> and follow the instructions. If you can't apply online, please email supremecourt-coursupreme@probonoontario.org. Please be sure to include a copy of the decision you wish to appeal.

Please note that this pro bono service begins with an attempt to find a lawyer to assess the merits of your proposed application for leave to appeal. If a lawyer concludes that your application has a reasonable prospect of success, PBO will then seek to identify a lawyer who can provide you with further assistance.
